

November 07, 2025: On Normalizing Criminal SuperVillains at the Expense of Humanity

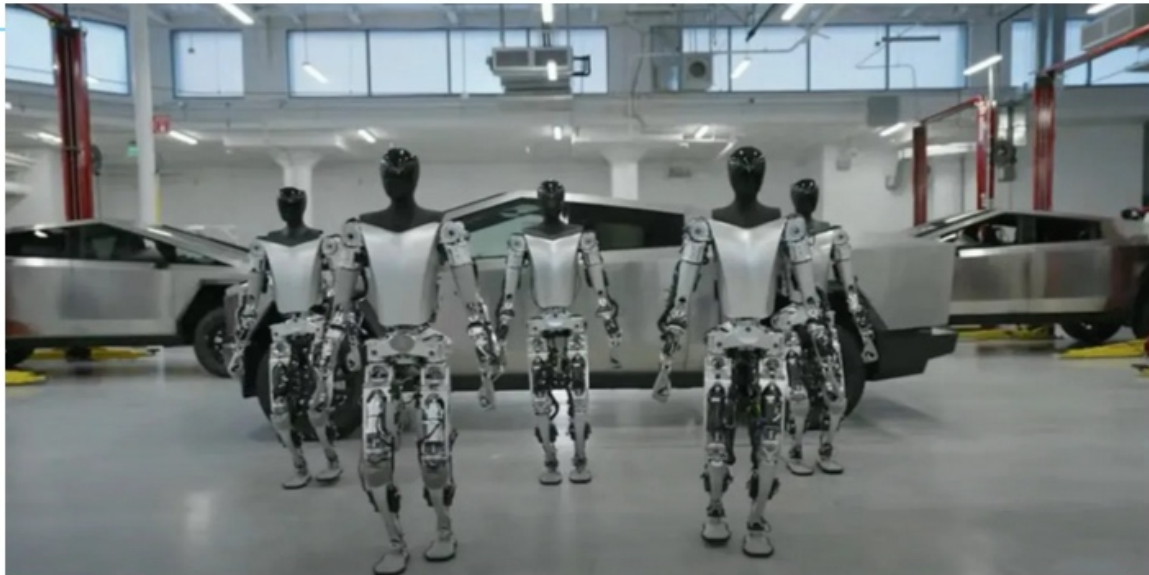

Made in America and paid for by American tax dollars.

This is the future as presented by the US Military's most active partner.

Elon Musk says let criminals out of prison and give them a robot stalker instead

Jameson Dow | Nov 6 2025 - 2:47 pm PT | 40 Comments

At today's Tesla shareholder meeting, Tesla CEO Elon Musk got right to the point in making his trademark ridiculous pronouncements, suggesting that criminals should be let out of prison and followed by a crime-preventing robot instead.

Tesla's shareholder meeting is underway, and the big headline is that shareholders have enthusiastically voted against their own interests, diluting their own voting rights and handing more control of the company to the one person on Earth currently negatively affecting its business the most, CEO Elon Musk.

I am pretty sure that we already saw this movie.

In the year 2035, humanoid robots serve humanity, which is protected by the Three Laws of Robotics. Del Spooner is a homicide detective in the Chicago Police Department who hates and distrusts robots after one rescued him from a car crash while allowing a 12-year-old girl to drown —based purely on cold logic and odds of survival.

Welcome to the present moment.
(I was here first!)(10 years early!)